SUMMARY OF AMENDMENT PROPOSED TO BE CONSIDERED AS ADOPTED

The amendment would prohibit funds in this or any prior Act from being used to release any person currently detained at Naval Station, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba into the continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii, or DC. It also prohibits the transfer of any detainee to the U.S. for the purposes of detention or prosecution until two months after the President submits a comprehensive plan on the proposed disposition of each individual, and 30 days after providing to the Governor and legislature of the state to which the individual is to be transferred a certification that the detainee does not pose a security risk to the United States. The amendment also prohibits the transfer or release of a detainee to any other country unless the President submits to Congress details on the terms of the agreement and information on any potential security risk posed at least 30 days prior to such transfer or release.
